NOW READY.

The Annual American Catalogue, 1897

THE ANNUAL AMERICAN CATALOGUE for 1897 contains:

- (1) Directory of American Publishers issuing books in 1897.
- (2) Full-title Record, with descriptive notes, in author alphabet, of all books recorded in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, 1897.
- (3) Author-, title-, and subject-index to same, in one alphabet.
- (4) Publishers' annual lists for 1897.

This volume forms the THIRD ANNUAL SUPPLEMENT to the AMERICAN CATALOGUE, 1890-95.

One volume, half leather, $3.50; in sheets, $3.00.

The edition as usual is a limited one. The volumes for 1890 to 1893 are all out of print, and orders for those of 1894, 1895, and 1896, to insure supply, should be promptly filed. THE ANNUAL ENGLISH CATALOGUE, for which we have the American market, now includes full title entries, after the manner of the American volume, instead of the previous abbreviated entries. It will be furnished at $1.50 paper, or bound with the American in one volume, half leather, at $5.00, net.

READY AT ONCE.

The Annual Literary Index, 1897

Including Periodicals, American and English, Essays, Book-Chapters, etc., Special Bibliographies and Necrology of Authors. Edited by W. I. FLETCHER and R. R. BOWKER, with the co-operation of members of the American Library Association and of the Library Journal staff.

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX for 1897 is now printing and will be ready earlier than usual in the year. This not only covers the full range of periodicals included in Poole's Index, as no other publication does, but includes the "essay index," continuing the "A. L. A. Index to General Literature," an index to events of 1897, which is practically an index to the daily papers, a list of bibliographies of the year, and a necrology of authors, etc. The volume is the first annual supplement to Poole's Index for 1892-1896, and the fourth to the "A. L. A. Index to General Literature." It is the complement of THE ANNUAL AMERICAN CATALOGUE of books published in 1897, and with it makes a complete record of the literary product of the year. It is thus the most comprehensive tool in the way of a guide to recent literature furnished for library and trade purposes. The edition is limited.

One volume, cloth, uniform with Poole's Index and the A. L. A. Index, $3.50, net.

"Of great value to all who would keep advised of the topics and writers in the periodical literature of the day."—Universalist Quarterly.

"Good indexing could no further go."—The Nation.

NOTES IN SEASON.

DODD, MEAD & Co. announce for early publication "From Tonkin to India," a narrative of travel and adventure in the far East, by Prince Henry of Orleans. The present crisis in China gives much interest and importance to Prince Henry's travels there during 1895.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have just published a volume of "Selections from the Works of Bishop Thorold," with a preface by the Lord Bishop of Winchester. They call attention to their extensive line of handsome Easter booklets, cards, and novelties for 1898. Dealers who have not been called upon by their travelers can have samples from which to make up orders.

MACMILLAN & Co. will publish on the 1st of March Zola's "Paris," translated by Alfred Vizetelly. It will be published on the same day in Paris, London, and Toronto. They have in press "A Handbook of Nature Study," by D. Lange, of the Central High School of St. Paul, Minn.; and the memoirs of Sir Charles Gavan Duffy, which is to be published in two volumes under the title of "My Life in Two Hemispheres."

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just ready Dr. A. Conan Doyle's new novel, "A Desert Drama," in which he takes his readers up the Nile and shows them some fighting and love-making of a new order for the creator of Sherlock Holmes. They will publish shortly "The Comic History of Greece," by Charles M. Snyder; a charming book on the Florida Everglades, by Lieut. Willoughby; "The Winter's Tale," a new volume in Dr. Howard Furness's Variorum edition; and two novels—"Madam of the Ivies," by Elizabeth Phipps Train, and "Miss Belmaine's Past," by B. M. Croker.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish to-day E. W. Hornung's new book, "Young Blood," which has in it all the elements that have already endeared him to the fiction-reading public: an absorbing mystery unexplained and tantalizingly baffling up to the very last page; vigorously drawn and lifelike characters; a series of adventures and remarkable events which do not flag for an instant; and a direct, forceful power of expression which makes these dashing romances real literature. They have also just ready the first volume of a "Dictionary of the Bible," edited by James Hastings and John A. Selbie. The work will be complete in four volumes of about 900 pages each, and sold only by subscription. They will publish next month Frank R. Stockton's new story, "The Girl at Cobhurst." The story will be entirely new to the public, as it has not been published serially. It exhibits admirably the ingenious and cunning nature of the author's plots as they subtly lead the readers into those charming intricacies which can only be characterized as "Stocktonian." The first edition is 10,000 copies.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish April 15 "Vanity Fair," the first volume of the Biographical edition of Thackeray's works in thirteen volumes. Mrs. Richmond Ritchie, Thackeray's daughter, has written for each volume a memoir in the form of an introduction. The works will be arranged as far as possible in chronological order, and each novel will be contained in a single volume. The edition will be printed from new type; it will include many of Thackeray's letters hitherto unpublished; and, in addition to numerous reproductions of engravings on steel and wood which appeared in the édition de luxe, it will contain new drawings and sketches by the author, and several facsimiles of his mss. as well as portraits of him hitherto unpublished. The latter include those by Maclise in the possession of the Garrick Club, the committee of which has kindly consented to their reproduction. A volume will appear each month until the edition is completed in April, 1899. They have taken over the publication of the romances of H. G. Wells, heretofore published by Edward Arnold, who is closing out the American branch of his business. They announce the early publication of Mr. Wells's startling story, "The War of the Worlds."

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tl. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. 48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Bailey, Liberty Hyde. First lessons with plants: being an abridgment of "Lessons with plants: suggestions for seeing and interpreting some of the common forms of vegetation"; with delineations from nature, by W. S. Holdsworth. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1898. c. 10+117 p. D. cl., 40 c. [525]

These simple lessons are designed to awaken an interest in plants and in nature, rather than to teach botany. They are suggestions to the teacher who desires to introduce nature-study into the school.

Bailey, Liberty Hyde. Garden-making: suggestions for the utilizing of home grounds. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1898. c. 5+417 p. D. (Garden-craft ser.) cl., $1. [526]

Opens with "General advice" about the preparation of the land, sowing and planting, transplanting young seedlings, winter protection of plants, etc., following with "The plan of the place," "Planting and ornamental grounds," "The fruit plantation," "The vegetable garden," and "Seasonable reminders," the latter containing planting calendars for the north and south. All the chapters give minute directions for planting, arrangement, etc.

Catholic family annual, 1898. N. Y., Catholic School Book Co., 1898. c. '97. il. 8°, pap., 25 c. [532]

Cisneros, Evangelina Betancourt Cosío y. The story of Evangelina Cisneros, told by herself; her rescue, by K: Decker; introd. by Julian Hawthorne; il. by F: Remington, T: Fleming, and others. N. Y., Contimental Publishing Co., [1898.] c. '97. 7-253 p. por. D. cl., $1. [533]

The story of the young Cuban girl rescued through the assistance of a New York paper from a Spanish prison. Mr. Decker, who personally planned and carried out her release, tells his thrilling story, and Miss Cisneros gives the history of her life down to the present time. A chronology and outline history of Cuba are included. The work is to be sold for the benefit of Miss Cisneros.

Clerke, Agnes Mary, Fowler, A., and Gore, J: Ellard. Astronomy. N. Y., Appleton, 1898. 13+581 p. il. D. (Concise knowledge lib.) hf. leath., $2. [534]

Aims to present, in concise form, a popular synopsis of astronomical knowledge to date. In section 1, Miss Clerke, author of "A popular history of astronomy during the nineteenth century," gives a brief historical sketch of the science from Hipparchus to the present time. In section 2, Mr. Fowler, demonstrator of astronomical physics to the Royal College of Science, briefly outlines the general principles of spherical and gravitational astronomy, and describes the instrumental means now at the command of observers in the various branches of astronomical research. Sec. 3 deals with the solar system. Sec. 4, by J. E. Gore, treats of the sidereal heavens.

Cooke, S: The foundations of scientific agriculture. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1897. 5+268 p. il. D. cl., $1.50. [535]

Cotes, Mrs. Sara Jeannette, [Mrs. Everard Cotes.] A voyage of consolation: (being in the nature of a sequel to the experiences of "An American girl in London.") N. Y., Appleton, 1898. c. '97, '98. 3+325 p. il. D. cl., $1.50. [536]

"An American girl in London" acquired the English pronunciation of certain words, which proved displeasing to her ultra-American lover. A lover's quarrel led to the return of his ring, etc. To change the current of his daughter's thoughts, her rich American father took her and her mother to see the continent. They travelled strictly according to Baedeker; but the American girl revived, and she saw France, Italy, and the rest of the sights of the "grand tour" in good spirits, and shared her thoughts with many bright people. She returned consoled and reconciled.

Johnston, H. W. A collection of examples illustrating the metrical licenses of Vergil. Chic., Scott, Foresman & Co., 1898. 3-54 p. O. pap., 50 c. [548]

The metrical licenses of Vergil are sufficiently explained, perhaps, in the school editions and the school grammars. Teachers, however, frequently feel the need of a more copious collection of examples, drawn from Vergil exclusively, than these books afford, and such a collection, with a few helps in the form of notes, is all that this pamphlet pretends to furnish."—Introductory Note.

Klemperer, G. Elements of clinical diagnosis; authorized translation, by Nathan E. Brill, M.D., and S. M. Brickner, M.D.; from the 7th (last) German ed.; with 61 il. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1898. 17+292 p. 12°, cl., net, $1. [549]

First published in Germany in 1863. Supplements the author's admirable life of Martin Luther. Dr. Köstlin is considered one of the foremost Luther scholars of the world. The translator says: "It is impossible to estimate the influence which has been exerted by this lucid and complete exhibition of the doctrinal basis of Luther's tireless activity. It reveals his grasp of great fundamental truths and his fidelity to them amid all the changing phases of theory, and even while his own mind was yet struggling to free itself from the bondage of traditional error upon minor points."

Nicoll, Rev. W. Robertson. The incarnate Saviour: a life of Jesus Christ. N. Y., American Tract Soc., [1898.] 3-356 p. D. cl., $1. [559]

Narrates, in a popular form, the chief events in the life of our Lord, aiming to show how these bear on the doctrine of the incarnation and atonement.

Peattie, Mrs. Elia W. The judge. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., [1898.] c. '90. 286 p. D. cl., 75 c. [560]

A novel which deals with a question of criminology. A celebrated Judge of Chicago noted for intellectuality, and who was honored professionally and socially, was possessed of an unknown mania for murder; the story shows how the desire develops under certain conditions, finally gaining complete mastery over him, leading him to commit murder and finally suicide. There is a love-story to counteract the depressing effects of the sad personal history.

A selection from these letters, considered the best of Rossetti's letters so far published, appeared in the Atlantic Monthly for 1896 in four separate articles, by Dr. Birkbeck Hill. The omitted letters and passages are included in the present volume, the additions increasing the material to four times the size of the original papers. The book is an important contribution to the history of the pre-Raphaelite group.

Sherman, Caroline K. Dante's vision of God: a critical analysis. Chic., Scott, Foresman & Co., [1898.] 33 p. sq. S. pap., 50 c. [573]

Mrs. Sherman in her analysis shows, with marvellous insight and clearness, that Dante has given the most complete artistic expression to the highest spiritual truths: that the Divine Comedy is the Eternal Truth in poetic form, proclaiming the reality of justice, and declaring that the soul can find satisfaction only as it lives, moves, and has its being in God—the Source of all good.

Smith, Theodore Clarke. The liberty and free soil parties in the Northwest: Toppan prize essay of 1896. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1897. c. 9+351 p. O. (Harvard historical studies, no. 6.) cl., net, $1.75. [574]

Trumbull, Annie Eliot. A Christmas accident, and other stories. N. Y., A. S. Barnes & Co., 1897. c. 5+234 p. D. cl., $1. [577]

"A Christmas accident," the first story, was published originally in the Hartford Courant, the others entitled "After—the deluge," "Memoir of Mary Twining," "A post-lude," "The Daily Morning Chronicle," "Hearts unfortified," "Her neighbor's landmark," appeared in the Atlantic Monthly, New England Magazine, and McClure's Magazine.

Van Norman, Mrs. Ina E. Wood. Minnawaska: a legend of Lake Mohonk: sequel to Longfellow's "Hiawatha"; and other lyrical poems. Chic., Donohue & Henneberry, [1898.] c. '97. 243 p. por. il. O. cl., $2.50. [578]

Vindication of the bull "apostolicæ curæ": a letter on Anglican orders, by the Cardinal Archbishop, and Bishops of the Province of Westminster, in reply to the letter addressed to them by the Anglican Archbishops of Canterbury and York. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1898. 4+122 p. O. pap., net, 35 c. [579]

Wales, Prince of. H. R. H. the Prince of Wales: an account of his career, including his birth, education, travels, marriage, and home life, and philanthropic, social, and political work. N. Y., Appleton, 1898. 11+199 p. por. il. O. cl., $3.50. [580]

Claims to be the first accurate record of the life of the Prince of Wales. It is profusely illustrated with views of the Prince's different residences, ceremonies in which he took part, and a series of portraits begun in his infancy and brought down to the present day. The title covers the contents, which is pleasantly and popularly written. The book is published anonymously, but Miss Marie Belloc, now Mrs. Lowndes, is said to be the author.

Warren, Rev. H. Vallette. There go the ships; and After many days. Buffalo, N. Y., C: Wells Moulton, 1898. c. '97. 8+131 p. D. cl., $1. [581]

The author belonged to the old United States navy; his book is a collection of his own poems, extracts from his log and from a sailor's letters, with many texts quoted from the Bible. Both prose and poetical material relate to the sea, or to a sailor's life, and have a strong religious bias.

Warren, Ina Russelle, ed. The doctor's window: poems by the doctor, for the doctor, and about the doctor; with an introd. by W: Pepper, M.D. Buffalo, N. Y., C: Wells Moulton, 1898. c. '97. 3+288 p. il. O. cl., library style, $2.50; mor., $5. [582]

This compilation contains nearly every poem of importance on the subject in the English language, including: Armstrong's "Art of preserving health," Garth's "Dispensary," Henley's "In hospital," Dr. Holmes' "The morning visit," and "Rip Van Winkle, M.D.," Riley's "Doc Sifers," Carleton's "The country doctor," and "The doctor's story," Eugene Field's "Doctors," and "His pneumogastric nerve," Peck's "Bessie Brown, M.D.," Whittier's "To a young physician," and about one hundred and twenty standard poems. It also includes a number of poems never before published. Nearly every phase of the physician's life is introduced, both grave and gay.

Co., 1897. 2 v., 22+452; 7+453-929 p. O. cl., $8. [583]

A scientific analysis of trade unionism in Great Britain. Contains a bibliography on trade unionism (22 p.).

White, Frances Hodgson. Sea tales; il. by Ernest L. Proctor. Buffalo, N. Y., C: Wells Moulton, 1898. 4-53 p. il. S. cl., net, 60 c. [584]

Two fanciful stories dealing with specimens of natural history of deep-sea life. The first is entitled Coralie, the "Ocean Queen"; it tells how the supposed queen of the rock-builders rules her subjects, and gives much information about the construction of the coral reefs and the origin of pearls. The second, called "Helena's dream," deals with other phases of sea life; simple and comprehensible facts are revealed in a dream.

White, Percy. A passionate pilgrim. N. Y., Appleton, 1898. c. '97. 2+308 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 235.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c. [585]

The "passionate pilgrim" is the son of the Reverend Wilfred Blake, rector of Kelverton. While still a schoolboy he falls in love with Sylvia Carr, the daughter of a dissenting minister. Both fathers object to the alliance and the match is broken off. Young Blake goes to Oxford and Sylvia marries a peer's son, who is also under age. The hero's love affair with another girl is told and its unfortunate ending. He inherits a fortune, becomes a society man, and again comes under the influence of Sylvia. The story ends without any sensational scenes.

Wyman, W. E. A. The clinical diagnosis of lameness in the horse. N. Y., W: R. Jenkins, [1898.] c. 4+170 p. O. cl., $2.50. [586]

A résumé, embodying mainly the teachings of Prof. H. Müller, of Berlin, Germany. To the different chapters, short anatomical sketches and drawings, as well as important anatomo-physiological laws, have been added. This compendium is chiefly intended for the student, to give him a concise treatise on the symptoms accompanying the various forms of lameness, the differential diagnoses wherever an error is liable to be made, and recognized practical methods of examination to aid him in the detection of the seat of the lameness.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 26, 1898.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE SALESMAN'S AUTHORITY.

THE decision by the Court of Appeals in St. Louis, Mo., in the matter of Groves & Mabrey, Texas merchants, against the Kelley-Goodfellow Shoe Company, of St. Louis, naturally attracts the attention of wholesalers and manufacturers in every branch of trade, and causes, we think, much unfounded speculation as to the ultimate outcome of the case.

The facts in the case are that the Kelley-Goodfellow Company refused to accept an order taken by one of its salesmen from Groves & Mabrey, because the sale was effected below the price for which he was instructed to sell. Groves & Mabrey refused to pay more, and filed suit. The Circuit Court decided in favor of the Kelley-Goodfellow Company, but on appeal the majority opinion of the Court of Appeals decided that the action of the salesman bound his employer. A non-suit was ordered, and the case will be tried over again.

The majority opinion is as follows:

"First—That when a mercantile house sends out a travelling salesman with authority to solicit orders and make sales of its goods, and the salesman sells its goods below their market value, and gives a bill of sale therefor under the name of his principal, and extends the time of payment beyond the time fixed by private instructions given by the house, which he did not communicate to the purchaser, the sale is binding on the house, and it cannot repudiate the sale for the reason that the goods were sold below their value and the time of payment extended beyond the time limited by private instructions.

"Second—The authority of a travelling salesman to sell the goods of his principal need not be shown by an express delegation of sub-authority, but it may be established by the general custom of merchants or by the uniformity of a previous course of dealing between the wholesale house and its customer with reference to orders for goods taken by the travelling salesman.

"Third—When it is the custom of the trade that a sale made by a travelling salesman of his principal's goods, otherwise absolute, may be rejected by the house on account of the unsatisfactory commercial standing of the purchaser, such right is in the nature of an option to accept or reject the purchaser as its debtor. This option must be exercised within a reasonable time after the order for the goods is received, and if not so exercised the contract of sale becomes absolute.

"Fourth—That the option to reject the order or sale on account of the unsatisfactory commercial standing of the purchaser does not carry with it the right to repudiate the sale for any other reason or for no reason at all."

If this decision of the Court of Appeals should stand the test of the higher courts, which is unlikely, manufacturing and jobbing houses would be at the mercy of dishonest or irresponsible salesmen. If they sold goods below cost their employers would be compelled to deliver the goods and bear the loss. This decision, if allowed to stand, would bankrupt the wholesaler and manufacturer, for while the majority of travelling salesmen show good judgment and discretion in the sale of goods, yet there are many who are disposed to make concessions in prices that would bring no profit to their employers.

Common law imposes upon the agent, if he undertakes the employment, the obligation to do that which his principal directs him to do. If the agent undertakes that which his principal directs him to do and fails to do it he is liable for negligence. As to contract between buyer and seller, if a house sends out a salesman to sell goods and fixes a price and the terms upon which the goods are to be sold, the buyer can no more hold the seller liable for the violation of the agent's instructions by his principal than the principal and seller can hold the buyer liable for the purchase price of the goods until the goods are delivered and the debt becomes due. Furthermore, if the buyer should decide, after he has bought a bill of goods, that he doesn't need a part of them, or that he may not want any of them, he is at liberty to countermand the order and to claim that there was no contract. If it is allowed that there was no contract upon the buyer's part to buy, there can be none upon the wholesaler to sell, as it takes two to make a contract.

As a writer in the Commercial Lawyer says: "All sales made by salesmen are subject to the approval of the seller, and there is no contract until the sale has been ratified and approved. If the sale is a contract when the goods are sold by the salesman, and subject to rejection by the seller on the grounds only that the buyer's financial standing is such as will not warrant the shipment of the goods, why does the law vest the title in the seller up to the actual delivery of the goods at their destination?" As a matter of fact, the title to the goods does not always pass even with delivery, the title remaining with and vested in the seller until goods are paid for.

THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE American Newspaper Publishers' Association ended its three days' annual convention at the Waldorf-Astoria on the 18th inst. The following officers were elected: President, Colonel Charles W. Knapp, of The St. Louis Republic; vice-president, J. A. Butler, of The Buffalo News; secretary, W. C. Bryant, of The Brooklyn Times; treasurer, Herbert F. Gunnison, of The Brooklyn Eagle; directors, W. H. Seif, of The Pittsburgh Times; S. H. Kauffmann, of The Washington Star; Charles H. Taylor, Jr., of The Boston Globe; Frederick Driscoll, of The St. Paul Pioneer-Press, and Milton A. McRae, of The Cincinnati Post; inspectors of election, Herman Ridder, of Die Staats-Zeitung, and Benjamin G. Wells, of The Philadelphia Press.

A committee of five was appointed to look after the interests of all the newspapers that are members of the association in connection with the apprehended advance in the price of white paper. The committee consists of John Norris, Milton A. McRae, Charles M. Palmer, S. H. Kauffmann, and Colonel Charles W. Knapp.

It was decided that the Board of Directors recommend to the membership of the association the propriety of obtaining signatures to a form of license granting the right of making line drawings from copyrighted photographs, but not from objects of art. This action involves an agreement to the effect that members of the association will not print any pictures made by photographers who will not grant a license to the association.

The Executive Committee was instructed to consider a measure, having reference to the passage of a law by Congress, providing for a convenient form of postal currency to be used in making remittances through the mails.

The Board of Directors was instructed to communicate with the various telegraph companies protesting against the sending out by them of news bulletins on occasions of importance, and selling them to others than publishers.

There was also a general discussion of the law of libel as it affects publishers, but no definite action was taken.

THE WOMAN'S INTERNATIONAL PRESS CONGRESS.

THE WOMAN'S INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION held a two-days' "congress" in Washington, D. C., February 19 and 20. The chief feature of the congress was a reorganization and a change of the name to The International Press and Authors' Association. The new organization will include women and men, and its purpose is to hold annual congresses. Mrs. Mary S. Lockwood, editor of The American Magazine, was elected president. Ten vice-presidents were chosen, and Mrs. May W. Emerson was elected corresponding secretary, Mrs. Hannah B. Sperry, recording secretary, and Mrs. Mary A. Gist, treasurer. Anna Virginia Culbertson gave a talk on "American Folklore," and "Origin of the 'Uncle Remus' Tales"; a paper on "Copyright," contributed by Thomas G. Alvord, of the Library of Congress, was read by Miss Cynthia E. Cleveland; and papers were read on "The Mission of the American Novel," by Mrs. Daniel Lothrop; "Artistic in Fiction," by Mrs. May Whitney Emerson; "Poem to American Journalists," by Mrs. Kate Tannatt Woods; "Women in Journalism, Past and Present," by Mrs. Kate B. Sherwood; "Journalism as an Art," by Mrs. Lucy Leggett, of Detroit; "The National Newspaper," by Mrs. Mary S. Lockwood, of Washington, and "Unrestrained Freedom of the Press," by Miss Arianna E. Scammon, of Chicago.

THE DRUMMERS' FAIR.

THE Drummers' Fair, in aid of the Commercial Travellers' Home, at Binghamton, N. Y., will be opened on the evening of the 28th inst., at the Madison Square Garden. Among the attractions will be a tobacco booth, a flower booth of original design, and a booth whose decoration will be American Beauty roses, and within which will be sold the book entitled "Fifty American Beauties." The contents of this book include portraits of half a hundred American favorites of the stage, with their autographs and a quotation contributed by each. The entertainment will include, among other things, the biograph, a vaudeville show, and the Old Guard Band. Mr. Chasseaud is the general manager.

AMERICAN BIBLE SOCIETY TO MEET COMPETITION IN PUBLISHING.

COMPETITION on the part of publishing firms which have undertaken during the last few years the printing of the Bible has seriously affected the operations of the American Bible Society, which, almost since its organization in 1816, monopolized, by general consent, the business of printing the Bible in the United States. Now, however, the society finds that competition in the work of printing the Bible and parts thereof has assumed such proportions that its own income from that direction has been greatly reduced, and in consequence its ability to distribute the Scriptures broadcast has been largely curtailed.

In the report of the society for 1897 a decided falling off in the circulation of the Scriptures is shown. Many Bibles have been placed in the market at prices much less than it cost the society. Many of these editions, too, have within their covers concordances or other matters for reference which have made them popular, while the society, by its charter, as interpreted by its Board of Managers, is debarred from printing or circulating its Bibles unless they are "without note or comment." The falling off of circulation has been noticed also among the auxiliary societies controlled by separate management in each of the States. Several of the oldest and most notable of the auxiliaries have of late sought other markets from which to buy their books.

One of the contributing causes for the existing situation was considered to be the antiquated processes by which the Bible was being printed in the Bible House pressroom, which precluded its publication at the low cost attained by establishments using more modern machinery. The society has now purchased two rapid presses, and they will soon be in active operation. With these new facilities, it is expected that Bibles can be published at a great reduction in cost, and the society will be able to meet all demands upon it. Its cheapest edition will sell at 20 cents per copy, and this price may be reduced in time so that each copy can be sold for 15 cents.

Announcement is made by the society that it has engaged the services of the Rev. Frederick D. Greene, formerly a missionary of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions in Turkey, and for the last three years the Secretary of the Armenian Relief Committee in the United States, as its financial agent for New York. The Rev. Marcellus Bowen, for ten years agent of the society in the Far East, is now in this country, and will represent it for a time in certain parts of New England.

WALTONIANA IN THE ASHBURNHAM LIBRARY.

WHEN the third and final portion of the Ashburnham Library comes to be sold, admirers of the "Fisherman's Bible" will see, according to Literature, for, perhaps, the last time, the first five editions of Walton's masterpiece all in their original sheepskin bindings, a set which, so far as is known, has no counterpart. Of all the editions of Walton the first is, of course, the most expensive, but that is only because it is a first edition, and, as such, in far greater demand than the others. As a matter of scarcity the second edition of 1655 is more noticeable, while the third of 1661 follows it very closely in that respect, but then the glamour which surrounds the primitive volume, which, by the way, was published the very year in which Oliver Cromwell was declared Protector, is almost entirely wanting. The highest price ever paid in England for a copy of the first edition of Walton was £415, in December, 1896, £310 and £210 being prior records. During the past eleven years only twelve copies have appeared in the London sale-rooms, and of these five were more or less imperfect. To find all five editions in their original bindings and perfect is absolutely a unique experience, and it is to be hoped that such an interesting series will be secured by some Waltonian of our own country.

BOOK PRODUCTION IN ITALY IN 1897.

ACCORDING to the Bolletino delle pubblicazioni Italiane there were published in Italy, during 1897, 9732 books and journals, or 46 less than in 1896, classified as follows:

Lombardy issued the larger number, heading the list with 1948 publications, while Campania and Basilicata bring up in the rear with 61 publications each.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

THE LIBRARIAN OF CONGRESS UPHELD.

JUDGE COLE on the 16th inst., in Circuit Court No. 1, Washington, D. C., dismissed the rule issued January 7 against John Russell Young, Librarian of Congress, to show cause why he should not be compelled to record the title of a book known as the "Everson Stock Book," and to grant its author, Valentine H. Everson, a copyright for it. In deciding the matter in favor of the librarian, Judge Cole held that the book in question does not come within the purview of the copyright laws.

When the case was argued, Attorney George C. Morrison, who appeared for Mr. Everson, maintained that the duty of the librarian to record the title of a book offered for copyright is a purely ministerial one, and that no judicial authority is vested in him, either expressly or by implication, in the Revised Statutes.

In behalf of the librarian, District Attorney Henry E. Davis argued that the "Everson Stock Book" is merely a form which has to be filled out by the user and is not a book as contemplated by the copyright laws.

MODIFICATIONS OF THE ENGLISH COPYRIGHT LAW.

THE new Copyright bill, which will receive the strong support of the literary class, aims, among other things, to dispense with the copyright performances of new plays with entrance fees of several guineas, the parts being read by amateurs and supers. The new regulations for the registry of the title will dispense with the necessity of this performance and save authors and managers much unnecessary annoyance and expense. Other changes will make an unauthorized translation an infringement of a copyright, and will extend the copyright to lectures and sermons, with the power to forbid newspaper reports of them. In addition, the measure provides that magazine authors are the owners of the copyright of their articles after three years.

WILLIAM H. YOUNG.

WILLIAM H. YOUNG, of Troy, N. Y., who on March 1 will complete his fifty-sixth year as a bookseller, was born in the city of Troy on the third day of November, 1817. His father, James Young, was born in Norwich, Conn., January 7, 1782, and went to Troy in October, 1796, when he was fourteen years of age, and was apprenticed to his cousin, Col. Nathaniel Adams, who was at that time the leading gold and silversmith of the village.

The elder Young served as journeyman with Col. Adams until the year 1809, when he, with a fellow journeyman, purchased the establishment under the firm-name of Young & Bell, Mr. Bell retiring in 1812. From that time until the year 1837 Mr. Young carried on the business in his own name, interrupted only by the great fire of 1820, when his stock and tools were entirely destroyed. But he was soon established in business again. In 1837 he was obliged to relinquish business from impaired eyesight, and died at Troy in the eighty-fourth year of his age, October 26, 1865.

William H. Young's mother, Mary Gardner, was the daughter of Job B. Gardner, who was a descendant of a Rhode Island Quaker family near Providence. She was born in April, 1797, and died in Troy, April 19, 1874.

At the age of fourteen, William H. Young, having received such education as the High School of that day afforded, entered the employment of Robert Wasson, who was a dealer in dry-goods, and also agent for the American Bible Society, the American Sunday-School Union, and the American Tract Society. Mr. Young remained with Wasson until the spring of 1833, when he was offered a position as under-clerk in the wholesale dry-goods house of G. & C. Dauchy, and on the 28th of April of that year he entered upon the duties of his clerkship. In the winter of 1834 his employers permitted him to attend school, and he entered the Troy Practical School, where he remained two quarters. At the same time he was required to attend to the opening and closing of the store, and to attend to such errands as occurred between school hours. In the course of nine years he rose from errand-boy to chief clerk.

In the spring of 1842 an opportunity was offered to Mr. Young of acquiring the book and stationery business of Zephaniah Clark, who wished to retire, on account of ill-health. With an old schoolmate, Charles P. Hartt, Mr. Young purchased the stock and fixtures of Mr. Clark at the store 214 River Street, and entered upon mercantile life as one of the principals of Young & Hartt.* In the spring of 1851 Mr. Hartt

*The first bookstore in the village now officially known as the City of Troy was opened in 1799 by Thomas, Andrews & Penniman, "Proprietors of the Albany Bookstore," in a building "next doore north of the store of Messrs. G. & B. Tibbits." The next bookstore was established by Ebenezer Platt in the spring of 1821, in a building on the west side of River Street, opposite Titus's Tavern. Ebenezer Platt took into partnership D. W. Platt, who seems to have dropped out in 1825, when the firm-name of E. & D. W. Platt became E. Platt & Co., with John Rousseau as the "Co." At this time the bookstore had been removed to 172 River Street. In 1828 E. Platt & Co. had given way to Clark & Hosford, of which Zephaniah Clark and James L. Hosford were partners. In 1832 the bookstore was removed to 216 River Street, and James L. Hosford sold out to Joseph Hosford, when the firm-name became Z. Clark & Co. A short time after Joseph Hosford retired from the firm and Zephaniah Clark continued the business alone in his own name until 1842, when Young & Hartt succeeded to the business.

was appointed cashier of the Commercial Bank of Burlington, Vt., which office he accepted in April of that year. In 1855 Mr. Hartt became cashier of the Manufacturers' Bank of Troy; in March, 1866, Mr. Hartt accepted the cashier-ship of the Second National Bank of New York City, which position he filled until March, 1869 (or about that time), when he was appointed Treasurer of the Delaware & Hudson Canal Co., which position he retained until his death, which occurred June 23, 1872. Mr. Hartt was born in Troy in 1818. He was chosen an alderman on the reform ticket at the election in the fall of 1871, in New York City, for the seventh district.

Mr. Young purchased Mr. Hartt's interest in the bookstore, and continued it in his own name until the spring of 1860, when he admitted into partnership Benjamin D. Benson, who had been in Mr. Young's employ nearly nine years. The firm then became Young & Benson. In the spring of 1866 the firm dissolved partnership, B. D. Benson retiring. Mr. Benson was offered a very flattering situation in a New York stationery establishment, which he accepted immediately after the dissolution of the firm of Young & Benson, and is at the present time engaged in the stationery business at No. 49 John Street, New York, the firm-name being Benjamin D. Benson & Son.

From 1866 Mr. Young again conducted the business alone until March, 1869, when he associated with him, under the firm-name of Wm. H. Young & Blake, Frederick Blake, who had been in his employ for a time as confidential clerk. In March, 1875, Mr. Blake withdrew from the firm, and Mr. Young assumed sole management of the business, and is now, at the time of the 56th anniversary of the house, actively engaged in all its details.

Mr. Young has been honored with a number of important positions, one of which was that of President of the Troy Young Men's Association, to which he was elected in December, 1853, and again in 1895, for three years, and in January, 1898, to succeed himself for another term of three years. In 1848 he was elected school commissioner, and served in that board eleven years. In February, 1850, he was elected Treasurer of the Board of Trustees of the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, which position he still retains. He is one of the Directors of the Mutual National Bank of Troy, to which position he was elected in November, 1867.

In 1864 Mr. Young erected the brown-stone front building which is now occupied by him at Nos. 8 and 9 First Street. In the spring of 1871 he erected the building at No. 214 River Street, the two buildings now virtually one, on the main floor, fronting on both River and First Streets.

His publishing ventures were confined to two books—a "History of Troy," an octavo of 400 pages, published in 1876, and "Troy's One Hundred Years, 1789-1889," a quarto volume of 450 pages, both compiled by A. J. Weise.

It will be seen that Mr. Young has occupied the premises now in his possession for the past fifty-six years. Not a vestige of the buildings as originally tenanted by him are standing, they having been replaced by the new and elegant structures now covering the old landmarks.

Mr. Young was married January 23, 1845, to Miss Elizabeth W. Randol, of Troy; her death occurred on the 2d of November of the same year. On September 15, 1847, his second marriage took place in the Mulberry Street Methodist Church, in New York City, to Miss Sarah A. Cox, daughter of the late William A. Cox. They have two daughters, one of whom married Rev. Henry Macbeth, of Willimantic, Conn., and the other, Frances, is with the household. On September 15, 1897, Mr. and Mrs. Young celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their married life, which was attended by their immediate relatives and a few invited friends of the family.

In looking over the names of firms in New York with whom Mr. Young had dealings, when he commenced business in 1842, he states that only the firms of D. Appleton & Co. and Harper & Brothers retain their original firm-names, although none of the original members of either firms are at the present time among the living, while many have disappeared entirely, among whom he mentions, Stanford & Swords, Dayton & Newman, Roe Lockwood & Son, J. S. Redfield, Daniel Dana, Jr., J. C. Meeks, J. & H. G. Langley, John McVicar, Mark H. Newman, J. C. Riker, Saxton & Miles, Bangs, Richards & Platt, trade sale auctioneers, Platt & Brothers, manufacturers of Levi Brown's gold pens, Robinson, Pratt & Co., while John Wiley & Sons, G. P. Putnam's Sons, Charles Scribner's Sons, and Dodd, Mead & Co., retain enough of their original firm-names to recognize their identity with those who were famous in the book trade half a century ago.

Although having passed his eightieth birthday, Mr. Young may be found at his place of business at the store every day, when not absent on business out of the city, and is always punctual at all meetings of the boards with which he is connected. He is in the enjoyment of perfect health, and may well boast that since his majority he has not been absent from business, on account of sickness, for ten successive days.

OBITUARY NOTES.

J. WILLARD ADAMS, one of the old guard of Southern booksellers, died at his home in Fredericksburg, Va., January 28, aged 74 years. He was actively engaged in the book, stationery, and music business for fifty years.

C. L. THATCHER, of the firm of C. L. Thatcher & Son, booksellers, Hillsdale, Mich., died on the 6th inst. He was sixty-two years of age, and went to Hillsdale about six years ago, establishing the business of which he was the head up to the time of his death.

MISS FRANCES E. WILLARD, the well-known temperance reformer and President of the World's and National Women's Christian Temperance Unions, died in New York on the 18th inst. Miss Willard was born September 29, 1839, in the village of Churchville, near Rochester, N. Y. Early in 1858 her family removed to Evanston, Ill., where Miss Willard was graduated from the Northwestern University in 1859. Three years later she was made professor of natural science in that institution; subsequently she was called to the Pittsburgh Female College, and in 1866 to the Wesleyan Seminary at Lima, N. Y. From 1868 to 1870 she travelled through Europe and the East. In 1874 she gave up her profession as teacher to identify herself with the temperance movement carried on by the W. C. T. U. In 1879, on the death of her brother Oliver A. Willard, she assumed the editorship of the Chicago Evening Post. Miss Willard found time, amid all her work, to publish several volumes, among them "Hints and Helps for Woman's Christian Temperance Work," "Home Protection," "Nineteen Beautiful Years," a tribute to a dead sister; "Woman and Temperance," "Glimpses of Fifty Years," "How to Win," "Woman in the Pulpit," "A Great Mother," a memorial of her own mother; "Year's Bright Chain," "Wheel Within a Wheel," giving an account of how she learned to ride a bicycle; and, in collaboration with Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, a series of biographical sketches, entitled "A Woman of the Century."

DAMASCÈNE MORGAND.

DAMASCÈNE MORGAND, who for thirty years occupied a most important place in the French second-hand book trade, died on January 29, after a long and painful illness. M. Morgand, member of the Cercle de la Librairie, was born in 1840 in Sommerey, France. He was still almost a child when he began his career in the business of the bookseller, Dubust, in Rouen. After five years' apprenticeship he went to Paris in 1857, and obtained work with Auguste Fontaine, in the Passage des Panoramas, who at that time was noted for his lucrative trade in fine editions of books tastefully bound. Young Morgand, still under twenty years of age, soon ingratiated himself with the rich and exacting customers that gathered around his employer, and aided materially in extending the business. Morgand soon began to urge his employer to establish a second-hand department, as he had begun to attract quite a circle of book-lovers. Fontaine, in 1869, yielded, and very soon young Morgand bought some important books at the Pichon sale. Morgand induced M. Marquis, one of the best customers of Fontaine, to become the possessor of some of the rare books he had bought. Among these were "Offices de la Toussaint," one of the rarest specimens of the mosaic work of Padeloup; "Confessions de St. Augustin," bound for Marie d' Apremont; "Lettres de St. Augustin," bound for Mme. de Chamillart; the collection of portraits engraved in the reign of Louis XIV. by Bonnart and other celebrated artists; the superb specimen of the work of Pluvinel which had been the property of M. Huzard; the "Œuvres de Roger de Collerye," later sold to Baron James de Rothschild, and the celebrated collection of historic prints collected by J.-A. de Thou.

After this successful and profitable beginning Fontaine virtually gave his clerk carte blanche in the second-hand department. The Franco-Prussian War, which for a year almost killed business in France, did not seem to check the growth of the house of Fontaine. Damascène Morgand took advantage of the days of gloom to arrange and inventory the treasures he had accumulated. In the beginning of 1870 he published the first of his remarkable catalogues; in 1872 he issued another, covering about 6000 entries, which astonished bibliophiles by its imposing exterior, the quantity of its curious contents, and the prices fixed by the compiler, which at once showed a formidable rival to Potier, Techener, Porquet, and Tross, the master second-hand dealers at the close of the French Empire. The revival of business, the spirit of speculation abroad, and the growing number of book-lovers brought unheard-of prosperity to the house of Fontaine. Damascène Morgand proved a genius at removing all obstacles from any path that led to some coveted object. He bought at any price books he knew were wanted by special bibliophiles. Then when he had them in hand he excelled in selling them. He exercised an almost hypnotic charm upon his customers.

In 1875 Morgand decided that he had worked long enough for a very slight personal profit. He separated from Fontaine and bought the plant of M. Caen, taking his veteran clerk, Charles Fatout, as partner. This man supplied the cold and calculating element lacking in Morgand, who all his life was impulsive and optimistic to a fault. Although starting with very modest capital, Morgand and Fatout soon became a power in the market, and very few books of importance that they really wanted got into the hands of their rivals. Charles Fatout died in 1882, and Morgand carried on the business alone until 1897. He began to make a specialty of private sales. He bought collections and picked out their treasures, which he managed to get into the right hands without the transactions becoming public. He rarely exposed a collection to the chances of auction. But he sold the libraries of Abbé Bossuet, H. Destailleur, and Émile Müller at auction, and proved that he could have been successful in this field also if he had so desired. His special talent was tempting buyers. Many a rich banker or merchant who first crossed his doorstep from mere curiosity he transformed into a bookbuyer if not into a bibliophile. Morgand had qualities and gifts that would have secured him a front rank in any business capacity.

But aside from his marvellous success as money-maker Morgand desired other success than pecuniary profit, and this he showed when he became publisher. He undertook the publication of catalogues which cost fabulous sums of money, and also of important works which could only bring financial loss. Among these were the works of M. Emile Picot, of the Institut, who supplied the memoir from which we quote to the Bibliographie de la France.

In 1878 Morgand took a young clerk whose talents have greatly aided the progress of his business. M. Edouard Rahir was appointed his successor when he felt the hopelessness of his physical condition in 1897. All competent to judge concede that Damascène Morgand could not have a more worthy and competent successor.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

AFTER a silence of long duration, George Moore has concluded a new work, which will be published in the spring under the title of "Evelyn Innes."

"IOTA" (Mrs. Mannington Caffyn), author of "A Yellow Aster," has finished a new novel, entitled "Poor Max," which will be published shortly.

THE article in this month's Blackwood, signed A. S. and A. L., on "Queen Oglethorpe"—the lady mentioned in connection with "the King" in "Esmond"—is the joint contribution of Miss Alice Shield and Andrew Lang.

EMILE ZOLA, the historian of the modern Comédie Humaine, has been tried and found guilty of libelling the French army in the course of his crusade in the defence of Dreyfus. His sentence is twelve months' imprisonment and a fine of 3000 francs ($600). The final volume of his great trilogy (Lourdes, Rome, and Paris) is on the eve of publication in Paris and in this country.

THE new novel by Mrs. Atherton (who is sometimes erroneously spoken of as Miss Gertrude Atherton) has been advertised under two titles, "Millions of Bubbles" and "The Americans of Maundrell Abbey." It will, however, be called "American Wives and English Husbands." It is the first book about Englishmen written by the author of "Patience Sparhawk." Another novel from her pen called "The Great Black Oxen" will be published later in the spring. Part of the novel first mentioned will be found to deal with Californian affairs and people, and "The Great Black Oxen" will, in so far as that portion is concerned, form a companion volume to "American Wives and English Husbands."

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Authors' Circular, "the official organ of the English school of journalism," is the title of a monthly journal just begun. It is published from 295 Strand, London, W.

Scribner's for March will contain what is probably the last unpublished poem of H. C. Bunner. It is entitled "Lutetia," and refers to the last illness of Heine. In the same number the Rev. Dr. Charles A. Briggs tells of his discovery of the cash-book of the oldest missionary society in the world, organized in England in 1649 for "the propagation of the Gospel in New England." It had been lost more than 200 years when Dr. Briggs found it.

THE interesting statement is made by The Critic that Ferdinand Brunetière's recent course of lectures in New York on "La Littérature Française Contemporaine" will be published in its pages. These lectures were not read from manuscript, but were delivered from the merest notes, by far the major portion of each conference being purely extemporaneous. But M. Brunetière has engaged to write them out in full, on his return to Paris, and to send them to New York for publication in The Critic, where they will appear in their final form—the form in which he would wish to have them read and remembered.

A NEW theatrical journal is to be issued by Jean Boussod, Manzi, Joyant & Co., now removed to 170 Fifth Avenue. It is to be published in French and to give an exhaustive review of theatricals in France and foreign countries, with illustrations of actors and even of noted spectators. It will be edited from a literary and artistic standpoint and will be kept free of personal and national prejudice. Its columns are to be always at the service of authors, actors, and critics, and every shade of opinion, decorously expressed, will be published for the benefit of the stage and its patrons.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTES.

CARLO CLAUSEN, No. 19 Via Po, Turin, has published a catalogue of works in all languages on electricity and magnetism published from 1885 to 1897. There are probably 1900 titles, including a list of current periodicals and journals. A very full subject index is appended. (Pubblicazione Periodica, 1898, Nos. 1, 2, 172 p. 12°.)

BERNARD QUARITCH, 15 Piccadilly, London, published last month a valuable "Catalogue of Manuscripts, Bibles, and Liturgies," supplementary to former special catalogues of these classes. The list is especially rich in illuminated and historical manuscripts. A not unimportant feature of the list is the explanatory matter furnished by Mr. Quaritch. (No. 176, 199 titles.)

THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION has published in its Miscellaneous Collections, No. 1084, a "Bibliography of the Metals of the Platinum Group—Platinum, Palladium, Iridium, Rhodium, Osmium, Ruthenium," by James Lewis Howe, who enumerates the articles upon this subject found in scientific literature from 1748 to 1896. (318 p. 8°, Smithsonian Miscellaneous Collections, vol. xxxviii., No. 1084.)

THE ST. LOUIS (MO.) MERCANTILE LIBRARY has just issued the first number of a series of "Reference Lists," containing a "Chronological List of Missouri and Illinois Newspapers, 1808-1897, in the St. Louis Mercantile Library," and a catalogue of "Manuscripts relating to Missouri and Louisiana," also the property of the library. The list of newspapers will be found interesting and useful as a checklist. (22 p. 16°.)

THE second volume of Dr. Copinger's supplement to Hain's "Repertorium" has just been published by Sotherton & Co., London. Its issue was delayed owing to the labor bestowed on the proofs, Mr. Jenkinson, of the Cambridge University Library, and Dr. Konrad Burger, of Leipzig, having kindly read every sheet of the volume. Mlle. Pellechet has generously put at Dr. Copinger's disposal the materials acquired by her in cataloguing the incunabula in French libraries. The third volume of this work is making rapid progress.

THE "Supplement to the Annotated Catalogue of the Published Writings of Charles Abiathar White," covering the period 1886-1897, prepared by I. W. Stanton, of the U. S. National Museum, and printed in vol. 20 of the Proceedings of the Museum, has been issued in separate pamphlet form from the Government Printing Office. The supplement is prefaced by a short biographical sketch of Dr. White, and lists 60 titles, making the total record of Dr. White's writings 211 titles; the arrangement is chronological, and the entries are annotated.

WILLIAM BRIGGS, Toronto, will publish at once, Volume II. of the "Review of Historical Publications" relating to Canada, edited by George M. Wrong, Professor of History in the University of Toronto, assisted by H. H. Langton, B.A., Librarian of the university. This volume includes reviews of all the literature relating to Canada appearing in 1897, comprising more than one hundred publications. The volume for 1897, unlike that for 1896, includes a survey of the periodical literature for the year relating to Canada. A section is devoted to the works dealing with Canada's relations to the Empire. Even fiction dealing with Canadian history is noted, more than a dozen such volumes having appeared in 1897. The section devoted to geographical, economical, and statistical works has especial interest. Dr. George M. Dawson writes upon the Klondyke region. The Review contains this year about three hundred pages. The number of copies offered for sale is only five hundred.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE SUNSHINE PUBLISHING CO., Philadelphia, has published a book on "Alaska, its neglected past and its brilliant future," that seems to cover comprehensively all that the average reader wants to know about the subject.

THE unpublished verses by Rudyard Kipling on the Immortality of the Soul will, according to The Critic, shortly appear in print. They were quoted a few weeks ago by a Passionist Father in a church in Rome much frequented by English visitors.

C. HOWARD YOUNG, an invalid author of Hartford, Conn., has just published what might be called sick-room memoirs, under the title of "Sunny Life of an Invalid Fourteen Years in Bed." Mr. Young is a well-known journalist of the Connecticut town.

THE third annual meeting of the Booksellers' League will be held on the evening of March 9, at the Gramercy Lyceum. The League on that occasion will elect a president and six members of the Board of Managers. There will be music and refreshments.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & CO. will publish Tolstol's new book, "What is Art?" which very likely will arouse considerable interest. They will shortly publish in book form the papers by Dean Farrar on "Great Books," now appearing in the Independent.

RICHARD G. BADGER & CO. will publish immediately "Rational Home Gymnastics," by Hartwig Nissen, acting director of physical training in the Boston Public Schools. This new firm has just issued two volumes of poetry of striking merit—"Poems," by Philip Becker Goetz; and "Children of the Night," by Edwin Arlington Robinson.

THE Old Boys' Club of London has pledged itself to keep green the grave of Charles Lamb. A member of the Christ's Hospital Club has just repaired the grave of Charles and Mary in Lower Edmonton churchyard and placed around it a neat iron railing. The lettering on the tombstone has been restored, and an inscription added to the effect that the grave was repaired by "an Old Blue, Christmas, 1897."

AMONG the works William Morris intended to issue from the Kelmscott Press was a translation of the "High History of the Holy Graal," by Dr. Sebastian Evans; but although the preliminary arrangements had been made, the printing was not commenced at the time of Mr. Morris's death, and the project was consequently abandoned. The work is now to be issued by J. M. Dent & Co. in their Temple Classics.

THE [NEWSPAPER] PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION of New York City offers $5000 in rewards for proof against lawyers who have excited groundless actions or legal proceedings (in accordance with sections 132-4 of the Penal Code) against a daily newspaper of New York City, with a corrupt or malicious intent to vex or annoy. Edward P. Call, chairman of the Association at 208 Broadway, will furnish full particulars.

FUNK & WAGNALLS CO. have in preparation two new volumes by Dr. Louis Albert Banks, author of "Christ and His Friends" and "The Fisherman and His Friends." "The Christian Gentleman" will consist of practical addresses to young men on such subjects as "The Temple of the Human Body," "In the Secret Chambers of His Imagination," etc.; and "Paul and His Friends" will contain thirty stirring revival sermons on many practical subjects, such as were so boldly treated by the great Jewish apostle.

G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY announce "A Pedigree in Pawn," by Arthur Henry Veysey, author of "A Cheque for Three Thousand"; a volume of poems, by Belle R. Harrison; "Two Odd Girls," a novel, by John A. Peters; "The Twentieth Century Cook-Book," by C. F. Moritz and Miss Adele Kahn; "With Gyves of Gold, or, regeneration," by Henry and Herbert Bowers; "When Lovely Woman—" by Karl Kingshead, and a new paper-covered edition of "A Cheque for Three Thousand," which has now run into its seventh edition.

IN the Life of Tennyson by his son is reprinted the poet's letter to Samuel E. Dawson, of Montreal, acknowledging his "able and thoughtful essay on 'The Princess.'" The letter discloses in the most interesting fashion the play of suggestion in Tennyson's mind as his poems took form and substance in his imagination. Mr. Dawson is now Queen's Printer to the Canadian Government at Ottawa. For many years he conducted the largest bookselling and publishing house in Montreal. He has recently contributed a "Geography of Canada" to the series issued by Stanford of London.

WAY & WILLIAMS, Chicago, have in preparation a new book by Kate Chopin, author of "A Night in Acadie," the scene of which is laid largely in New Orleans and Grand Isle; a new book by Ambrose Bierce; a new story by Kate M. Cleary, whose book, "Like a Gallant Lady," has met with encouraging success; and a new book by Prof. Robert Herrick, of the University of Chicago. They have purchased the plates of the illustrations made by S. H. Vedder for the English edition of Stanley Waterloo's "Story of Ab," which will hereafter appear in the American edition.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR CO. announce for early issue "The Twentieth Century City," by Rev. Dr. Josiah Strong, the gifted author of "Our Country" and "The New Era," which together have sold upward of 200,000 copies. Dr. Strong is deeply religious and thoroughly practical, and he points out the dangers of a nation governed by cities notoriously incapable of governing themselves in no uncertain language. They also will have ready shortly "Life, Death, and Immortality," by William M. Bryant, a volume of essays taking the scientific and critical point of view of present and future.

THE CENTURY COMPANY announces as the final volume of the series, including the "Century Dictionary" and the "Century Encyclopedia of Names," the "Century Atlas," edited by Benjamin E. Smith, managing editor of the Dictionary and editor of the "Cyclopedia." The "Atlas" is an entirely new work, uniform in size with the other volumes of the series, and contains the latest geographical and historical information. There are 117 double-page maps, 138 inset maps, and 40 historical maps, printed in from five to ten colors, from half-tone copper plates. The indexes show about 200,000 entries.

W. IRVING WAY, Chicago, announces a limited edition of "Florence Bardsley's Story," a subtle and very humorous "skit" by the late Eugene Field, which is not included in his collected writings. It makes a book of about sixty duodecimo pages. The entire edition has been printed from type at the De Vinne Press, and the story has been given such a setting as must please the most fastidious lover of dainty bookmaking. Twenty-five copies have been printed on Japan paper and sold in advance of publication, and only a few copies of the one hundred and fifty printed on Van Gelder paper now remain for sale at $5 each. The initials and other ornaments, together with the four portraits, are decorated by hand in colors.

WILLIAM PAUL GERHARD, C.E., will publish early next month a volume on "Sanitary Engineering," in which he points out the special training and the course of studies required by a thoroughly educated sanitary engineer, and discusses such subjects as the water-supply for cities, sewerage, the prevention of pollution of water-courses, sewage disposal, street pavements, street cleaning and sprinkling, the removal of ice and snow, the public removal of refuse, and garbage disposal. A detailed discussion of municipal work is given, covering the questions of the laying-out of cities and towns, street traffic, the embellishment of public parks and squares, and the work of city improvement societies, as well as sanitation in relation to habitations. Sanitary house inspection, railroad and ship hygiene are also discussed. Much space is given to a consideration of the special work that the sanitary engineer is called upon to perform in case of epidemics, in time of war, and in sudden calamities and great disasters in civil life. The book is published by the author, and may be obtained from him at 36 Union Square, New York.

BUSINESS NOTES.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—D. P. Elder, bookseller, has formed a partnership with Morgan Shepard. The new firm of Elder & Shepard will remain at their present location, room 30, second floor of the Mills Building, for the present; but they intend soon to take a store to enable them to widen the scope of their business. They request publishers to send their latest catalogues and announcements.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.—Henry R. Johnson, bookseller and stationer, who for some time past has been occupying two stores, will concentrate his business by moving March 15 into a large store in the Fuller Block, one of the finest buildings in the city. Mr. Johnson's business has been growing rapidly, and he expects to make his new store a favorite resort of book-lovers of western Massachusetts.

TOPEKA, KAN.—The Kellam Book and Stationery Company has been awarded the contract for furnishing supplies to county officers.

YORK, PA.—Charles E. Crider, of Crider & Bros., booksellers, has retired from the firm, which will be continued under the old name by Horace W. Crider.

PICK-UPS.

A BOOK-LOVER'S WISH.

If I stray woodward, not for me
The loudest warbler in the tree,
But rather one that sings apart
The simple songs that touch the heart.
And so, although I may aspire,
Be mine the temperate desire—
Not for the missal-marvel old
Illumed with mediæval gold,
Not for the rare black-letter text,
O'er which his soul a Caxton vext,
Nor what some seek through shine and snow,
A priceless Shakespeare folio!

But only this—one little book
Where through do bird and bee and brook,
In their melodious employ,
Sing on and on and on of joy;
And where, amid the Maytime flowers,
Love, without rival, rules the hours.
One little book—whose title date
Reads quaintly, 1648;
In Saint Paul's churchyard, we are told,
Sold at the Crown and Marygold.
One little book—if fortune please—
Herrick, a "first" Hesperides!

—CLINTON SCOLLARD, in the February Scribner's.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

IN THE MIDST OF LIFE.

Tales of Soldiers and Civilians. By AMBROSE BIERCE, 12mo, gilt top, $1.25.

"Mr. Bierce portrays the most appalling scenes with a deliberation, a force, and a precision that are rarely seen. The realization of Walt Whitman's 'Specimen Days' is pale compared with that of 'In the Midst of Life.' It is a thing that one reads breathlessly and shudderingly. . . . A remarkable literary feat."—Scottish Leader.

WILL PUBLISH DURING MARCH:

FRANK R. STOCKTON'S NEW NOVEL.

First Edition of 10,000 Copies.

THE GIRL AT COBHURST. By FRANK R. STOCKTON.

12mo, $1.50.

R. STOCKTON'S new book resembles some of his greatest successes in not having appeared serially, and the author's delicate and elusive surprises are the fresher for this reason. It is a love-story, exhibiting admirably the ingenious and convincing nature of the author's plots as they subtly lead the reader into those adorable intricacies which can only be characterized as "Stocktonian." The matchmaking, crotchety old maid and the French cook, widow of an "artist" and herself a cordon bleu, who attempt simultaneously to lead the hero's affections in different paths, are the sort of characters which make one realize anew of Mr. Stockton that "of his kind he is the first and only."

RECENT SUCCESSFUL BOOKS BY MR. STOCKTON:

A STORY-TELLER'S PACK. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.50.

"In this latest book of his there is not one disappointment. Life cannot be without an object as long as there is the hope of something more from him."—WILLIAM DEAN HOWELLS.

MRS. CLIFF'S YACHT. The Adventures of Captain Horn. Each, 12mo, $1.50.

"Mr. Stockton has touched the high-water mark of romantic fiction and has shown his power to grasp the magic of Defoe and Stevenson."—London Speaker.

RUDDER GRANGE and POMONA'S TRAVELS. Illustrated by A. B. Frost.

New and cheaper edition. Each, 12mo, $1.50.

NOVELS AND STORIES. By "Q"

(A. T. Quiller-Couch). New and uniform edition. Each, 12mo, $1.25.

"Of all the short-story writers, we are inclined, in many respects, to give Mr. A. T. Quiller-Couch the first position."—NEW YORK TIMES.

The edition will contain nine volumes, as follows: The Splendid Spur, I Saw Three Ships, Dead Man's Rock, The Delectable Duchy, The Blue Pavilions, Noughts and Crosses, Wandering Heath, Adventures in Criticism, Troy Town.

TALES OF UNREST. By JOSEPH CONRAD. 12mo, $1.50.

A group of remarkable stories, by a new writer, equally marked by romantic and dramatic power and by distinguished literary expression. The tales, which recall some of de Maupassant's, have a decided psychological unity though their range of scene is from London to Malaysia.

SERMONS TO YOUNG MEN. By

HENRY VAN DYKE, D.D. 12mo, $1.25.

This is a new and enlarged edition of Dr. van Dyke's "Straight Sermons," whose quality of straightforward, manly Christianity has made them appeal so peculiarly to young men. As the Evangelist has said: "These sermons . . . bring the reader face to face with Christ, the Son of God; they show him what it is to be a man—what is the true quality, what the true energy of faith and courage, what the secret of power."

Vol. I. Just Ready. A DICTIONARY OF THE BIBLE. Edited by JAMES HASTINGS, M.A., D.D., and JOHN A. SELBIE, M.A. To be complete in four imperial octavo volumes of about 900 pages each, with maps and illustrations. Sold only by Subscription.

NAPOLÉON III. AND HIS COURT.

By IMBERT DE ST. AMAND. With portraits. 12mo, $1.50.

This is the second volume in a series devoted to the Second French Empire. The period covered is from Eugénie's elevation to the rank of Empress in 1853 to the birth of the ill-fated Prince Imperial in 1856; and the Crimean War and the great Exposition of 1855 are treated with the author's usual light touch and observant eye.

Volume I., Louis Napoleon and Mademoiselle de Montijo. With portraits. 12mo, $1.50.

TALES OF THE CITY ROOM. By

ELIZABETH G. JORDAN. 12mo, $1.00.

Ten short stories depicting various phases of life as only the newspaper reporter, and especially the woman reporter, sees it. Miss Jordan also takes her readers behind the scenes of the newspaper life itself, and reveals to them both its romance and its reality as has not heretofore been done.

MUSIC: How It Came to be What It Is.

By HANNAH SMITH. With many illustrations. 12mo, $1.25, net.

Miss Smith is a teacher of music and a lecturer on musical topics, and this book, embodying a mass of facts constantly asked for by her pupils, is the fruit of her professional experience. It aims to present compactly the origin and growth of the various forms of music, instrumental and vocal, as we know them to-day, together with a concise account of the development of the principal musical instruments.
